Dr. Eunice Wang is the Chief of the Leukemia/Benign Hematology Service and Professor of Oncology in the Department of Medicine at Roswell Park Comprehensive Cancer Center, Buffalo, New York, USA.

She is also Medical Director of Chemotherapy/Infusion Services.

In addition, she has an appointment as an Associate Professor, Department of Medicine, Jacobs School of Medicine & Biomedical Sciences at the University of Buffalo (State University of New York).

She earned her medical degree from the Keck School of Medicine, University of Southern California and completed residency training in Internal Medicine at Yale-New Haven Hospital, Yale University, New Haven, CT.

She completed a clinical hematology-oncology and research fellowship at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center in New York, NY.

Her research focuses on identification and translation of promising targeted and immunotherapeutic agents into clinical trials for patients with acute leukemias (AML, ALL) and myeloid malignancies (MDS, MPN).

She has served as the principal investigator of several investigator-initiated, cooperative group, and industry sponsored clinical trials for these diseases.

She has authored/co-authored over 200 peer-reviewed articles, book chapters, and editorials.

She previously served on the National Comprehensive Cancer Network (NCCN) guideline panels for AML, ALL, and MPN for several years.

She is a prior recipient of a NIH Cancer Clinical Investigator Team Leadership Award (CCITLA), an American Cancer Society Mentored Research Scholar award and ASCO Young Investigator Award.

In addition to her research, she maintains an active clinical practice caring for adults with acute leukemias, myeloid malignancies and bone marrow failure states.
